

Built to Last

These innovations—skin-care goods that come in refillable containers, solid shampoos that suds like a dream—eco up your routine without sacrificing an iota of quality.

TEXT BY ERICA SLOAN

Get Your Fill

Some things are even better the second go-around. Just take these refillable programs: L'Occitane Almond Milk Concentrate, a gentle body moisturizer, comes in a glass jar. Once you've slathered on the last drop, order more in a recyclable pouch that weighs up to 97 percent less than the original vessel. ($54 for 7 oz.; $39 for refill, loccitane.com).

Recontained, a beauty-and-home shop in Venice, California, lets you buy in bulk—and restock on its Toasted Sun Coconut Body Sugar Scrub in BPA-free packs you can return for reuse ($30 for 6.6 oz.; $26 for 8-oz. refill, recontained.com). Or pare down with Kate McLeod's Daily Stone Moisturizer (below): Glide the orb over dry spots—it lasts for months—then pop a new one in the bamboo box ($45; $38 for refill, katemcleod.com).

QUICK FIX

FADE FIGHTER

If you're a member of the hair-coloring club for busy women, you know all too well that salon-fresh vibrancy is short-lived, thanks to showering, sunlight, styling tools, and the drying effects of the dye itself.

For a tune-up between appointments, try Garnier Nutrisse Color Reviver. The five-minute mask hydrates with avocado oil and deposits nonpermanent pigments to brighten blondes and boost tone for brunettes and redheads. Swap it in for your usual conditioner 14 days after a color job, and every two weeks after that to deflect dullness.

In 5 shades; $8, garnierusa.com.

RAVE REVIEW

The Bar Is Set

“The first time I saw a solid shampoo, I thought it was genius. But each one I tried was drying, like bar soap posing as a hair product. The ones from by Humankind (left) and HiBar are the exceptions. Both sulfate-free formulas pack in oils like coconut for smoothness, and lather easily. The first comes with a water-absorbent dish made from sedimentary rock, while the second sits upright to help it shed excess moisture. Just wash, rinse, admire, and repeat.” —ES
$15, byhumankind.com; $14, hellohibar.com.